Proverb 22:6

“Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it.”

The children in this book will amaze you, inspire you, encourage you, and enlighten you. With so much against them, such as molestation, rape, drugs, alcohol, physical abuse, lack of love, lack of relationship, lack of communication, and lack of understanding from their parents they still continue to move forward. God’s awesome power of prayer saves these children’s lives. He has placed angels of love around these children who are teaching them, training them, and touching their hearts and minds in a way that will positively impact their future. The question we have to ask ourselves as we chase our own dreams and live our own lives, while trying to focus a little time with the kids is, “What About The Children.”
