RE: Letter of Recommendation

To Whom It May Concern:

Poole Fire Protection, Inc. retained Marc Pacino of Ambiente Federal Services to be our Federal Business Development Consultant for three months. During this time period Marc coordinated meetings for us to present our capabilities to a diverse set of attendees including Government Contracting Officers, General Contractors, Architects and Engineering firms. Marc provides an outstanding network of contacts and has done due diligence to introduced us to these contacts.

Another important service that Marc has provided is the development of teaming relationships with contractors, architects and engineers to more effectively enhance our growth and development in the federal marketplace. The teaming partners are extremely important when moving into new territories such as OCONUS. They provide insight and knowledge that allows us to hit the ground running. This is both a savings on time and money.

As a follow up on our initiative, Marc has helped us develop our marketing standard operating procedures so we can continue the initiative on our own. The knowledge and expertise Marc has provided to us will help us in our day to day marketing activities.

Our firm recommends the expertise Marc has to offer in developing a federal initiative. Marc is diligent at working hard to accomplish the goals that were set out and is always ready to help out where needed.

Please feel free to contact me any time should you require a personal reference.

Sincerely,

Subject: Letter of Reference for Marc Pacino

To whom it may concern:

Marc Pacino was retained by John A. Martin and Associates as a Federal Business Development Consultant from early February 2009 through mid May, 2009. During that time period Marc arranged for us to provide capabilities presentations to at least a dozen contracting staff members with the Air Force, Navy, Coast Guard, Army, and Veteran's Administration. Marc has also introduced us to several other officers and civilian staff members at conventions, meetings and conferences. He also arranged meetings and presentations with several contractors who have Federal Contracts in place.

In addition to the contract acquisition contacts and presentations, Marc has helped us to develop teaming relationships with contractors, architects, and other engineers to more effectively pursue Federal contracts. Many of these teaming partners have set aside credentials that improve our chances of acquiring contracts from the federal government. Marc has assisted us in learning critical sections of the Federal Acquisition Regulations that have helped us tailor our submittals more effectively for the contracts we have pursued. We have been able to submit statements of qualifications for both engineering services contracts and design build contracts. As most of those are still in the evaluation process, we do not know what our success rate is.

In February of 2009 we had little to no Federal presence; at this time, many of the contracting specialists are aware of our qualifications and have assured us we will get a fair evaluation. In speaking with many successful federal contractors and designers, I have consistently been told that breaking into the federal market is neither simple nor quick. I believe we have been able, with Marc's assistance, to compress approximately 12 months worth of this process into a three month process. I am confident that we are on the right track and will be successful in this market.

If you have any further or specific questions, please do not hesitate to call.
